Three Links to Speech or Language Impairment (SLI) Information

The three ED informational links I am sharing on my website were chosen for the different types of information that they offer. The American Speech Language Hearing Association, ASHA, has a wonderful website that provides articles on the latest research relating to speech or language impairment. The site also has links to practitioners, support group information, and continuing education opportunities for educators. The Center for Disease Control, CDC, has important information and links to federal, state and local resources for people with speech or language impairment. The web page also offers their information and links in Spanish. The Center for Parent Information and Resources has a great webpage, parentcenterhub.org, that includes resources for speech or language impairment. This page offers interesting articles, important information for families, and links to services and providers.
